Outcomes

Building Community

Teams may be able to accomplish a task but how did they feel doing it? Is the process sustainable or a flash in the pan endeavor? TeamQuest levels the playing field giving each person a chance to shine and gain an appreciation for one another.

Valuing Teamwork

Being dependent can be a sign of weakness while being independent can be a sign of strength. What's needed is interdependence — a real sense of working together. Being able to ask for and offer help and realizing the team can accomplish more together.

Breaking Barriers

Are we learning and growing everyday or are we sitting back in our "comfort zone" where we simply exist and strive to be safe at all times? Learning and growing only happens when we are willing to stretch ourselves and try new things.

Developing Trust

Trust can mean different things to people. TeamQuest puts this word into action by creating situations in which people must work together, communicate clearly, plan together and rely on each other in order to be successful.
